

TRIEST RAIDED BY ITALIANS

A Squadron of Seven Aeroplanes Dropped Bombs on Austrian City

9 PERSONS KILLED AND 5 WOUNDED

Austrian Report Says That a Monastery Was Destroyed

Berlin, April 25, by wireless.—The Austrian city of Triest has been raided by a squadron of seven Italian aeroplanes, bombs dropped from which killed nine persons, wounded five and destroyed a monastery.

The raid is reported in the following official communication issued at Vienna under date of April 21:

"Seven Italian aeroplanes dropped 25 bombs on Triest yesterday afternoon, killing nine civilians, of whom five were children, and wounding five other persons. The Salesian monastery, in the chapel of which 400 children were attending divine service, was destroyed. By this attack the enemy forfeited every right to have his towns spared.

"The northern part of Gorizia was shelled by guns of all calibres. There were no other developments except artillery engagements in some places along the coast and on the Carinthian front.

"In the Col di Lana district strong Italian attacks were repulsed. The losses of the enemy were very heavy. The Italians also failed in attacks against the positions in the Sugana sector, which recently were captured by Austro-Hungarian troops, and in assaults against our line west of Sperrone."

FLOODS HINDERING BRITISH ON TIGRIS

Troops Penetrated Turkish Positions But Were Not Able to Hold Them, London Gets Report.

London, April 25.—Floods in the Tigris region are proving a formidable obstacle to the advance of the British relief force. General Goringe, in another attack Sunday on the strong Sannaiyat position on the north bank of the river, met the same fate as in a similar attack on April 9. The British succeeded in penetrating the second line of Turkish trenches, but were unable to maintain the positions gained, in the face of a Turkish counter-attack. Nothing is said in the official statement about the losses, but it is feared these were serious.

Last week's fighting on the south bank of the river, which also was serious, and in varying fortune, had given General Keary's forces a net advance of about two miles, and it had been hoped that this success would help General Goringe to break through on the north bank. According to the official dispatch, General Keary's forces were unable to make much progress in Sunday's battle. The failure of the attack is attributed largely to flood conditions, which necessitated an advance over a very contracted front. The official statement says:

"General Lake, telegraphing to-day, reports: 'An attack made this morning on the Sannaiyat position, on the left, or north, bank, failed. The position had been systematically bombarded on the 20th and 21st at intervals during each night and again this morning. Owing to floods, it was found possible for one brigade only to attack over a very contracted front.'

"The leading troops of this brigade, consisting of a British composite battalion, advanced with great gallantry and penetrated the enemy's first and second lines, through the bog and submerged trenches. A few got up into the third line. The brigade, however, was unable to maintain itself under the enemy's counter-attacks. Other brigades pushed up on the right and left to reinforce, were unable to reach their objectives across the flooded, boggy ground under heavy machine-gun fire. Our troops on the right bank also were unable to make much progress."

ITALIANS GAIN ON CARSO

Capture 300 Yards of Trenches, Lost Part, Then Retake It.

Rome, via London, April 25.—The official communication from general headquarters issued Sunday reads as follows:

"In the Tonale zone Saturday night, the enemy attempted three successive attacks against our lines and works defending the pass. He was everywhere repulsed, with heavy losses.

"Artillery activity and enemy movements have been marked between the Largagins and Sugana valleys. In the upper Cordevole enemy batteries of all calibres concentrated their fire on Col di Lana, without effect.

"Along the upper and middle Isone, bad weather has hampered the action of our artillery.

"On the Carso, east of Selz, our infantry yesterday afternoon, supported by the artillery, occupied, despite fierce resistance, strong trenches 300 yards in length. The enemy, having received reinforcements, made a violent counter-attack during the night and on the second occasion succeeded in retaking part of the lost trenches.

"After a deadly hand-to-hand struggle, in which the enemy suffered heavy losses, we drove him out, capturing 133 prisoners, of whom six were officers. We also took two machine guns, 200 rifles, several flame projectors and numerous cases of ammunition and bombs."

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"The Only Girl."

"The Only Girl," which was the biggest musical comedy success in New York last year when it was presented at the Lyric theatre, there, and enjoyed a season of nine months, is the work of Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom. It is said that in this new musical comedy these brilliant authors have completed the most attractive of their many collaborations.

It is also said that "The Only Girl" has the advantage that it tells a straight comedy story, which contains a real idea and that every attention is so logical that it intimately fits the melody with a melody so perfect that every reviewer qualified it as the most musical and original play with music seen in New York for a long time.

This brilliant musical comedy which opened a big success here recently will again be the attraction at the Barre opera house, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, April 28, with the same company seen here before.—adv.

WILL CLAIM INSANITY

As Defense on Charge of Poisoning Her Two Children

SHE GAVE POISON TO AVOID SHAME

Jury Was Soon Selected in Case of Mrs. Ida Rogers in New York

New York, April 25.—Temporary insanity will be the defense of Mrs. Ida Sniffen Walters Rogers, on trial before Justice Tompkins on the charge of murdering her two children, John and Lorraine. She poisoned them so they would not grow up and face the shame of being nameless.

With face pale, set and betraying little emotion, Mrs. Rogers sat in court while the jury was selected. Once only did she show emotion. It was when Prosecutor Martin twisted a polite question her counsel asked and emphasized the word "mistress" as describing the defendant.

She stiffened perceptibly, her eyes flashed and the corner of her mouth trembled. Her garb of black was relieved only by a thin band of white around her collar.

Frequently through the session she turned and talked in whispers to her husband, Loris Elton Rogers, the father of the poisoned children, but at the time of their birth, married to another woman.

Attorney Martin showed by his questions to the gentlemen that the prosecution will be remorseless in its fight to prove the defendant sane at the time of the poisoning and that she should pay the full penalty of the law.

That mother love, the emotions of a woman scorned and the sympathy usually borne a woman in distress will be made to play large parts in the trial was apparent. The defense was pleased when it found a venetian man who, in addition to answering other wants, was married. Some of the questions of the defense to the jurors were:

"Have you any prejudice against insanity as a defense in a murder trial?"

"Have you any prejudice against the testimony of experts?"

"Will your views on morality prevent your trying the case unprejudiced against the defendant?"

The two questions which the prosecution wanted answered in the affirmative before it accepted jurors were:

"Are you prejudiced against the trial of a woman on the charge of murder?"

"Are you willing that a woman pay the extreme penalty of the law?"

The jurors are: Edward Storch, Charles E. Sherwood, David E. Berger, Julius Weidenmuller, Julius Hannes, Samuel Rodler, Albert V. McCotter, Jr., William A. Keepers, William O. Markert, George Zimmerman, Robert A. Mendher and James Prior. They are clerks, salesmen and business men and one a blacksmith. All are married.
